Course Content

Geography 394 will be offered during the Geography Overseas Field School, Spring and Summer Session, 2014. This half course focuses on the political and economic Geography of Southeast Europe.

This half-course centers on data collection techniques and field research applied to geographical phenomena in regions outside North America. Settlement patterns, transportation networks, and economic activities other than agriculture e.g., manufacturing, and fisheries will be important topics; tourism developments will be observed and studied; aspects of historical and political geography of this shatterbelt region will be analyzed. Comparing and contrasting regional cultural and religious variations at various sites on the itinerary will be a major focus.

The following pre-session components are included: one short paper, and introductory and topical lectures, field notes training; en route components will include lectures, seminars, student-instructor consultations, group tours, and lectures by local experts. While overseas, students must complete one oral presentation, three field study assignments, an extensive field notebook, and a final examination. The final examination will be conducted on-site, and will require students to synthesize observations made during the course and apply them to a concrete question. Note: Group travel study contains with numerous opportunities for small group and individual instructor-approved studies.

The final course grade includes these components:

pre-session paper	10%
on-site oral presentation (may be as part of a group).....	15%
three field assignments @ 10% each.....	30%
field notebook.....	30%
final examination	15%

597-course associated with GEOG 394:

Those enrolled in the associated 500-level course will be required to complete all these components but will be held to more rigorous marking criteria, including incorporation of more theoretical aspects of geography. In addition, they must complete a proposal for field research, including a literature review, prior to departure. An interim report on data collection will be due half-way through the field course, and a final report resulting from this research will be submitted no later than 6 weeks after the completion of the travel portion of the course.

Students enrolled in the 500-level courses will, in addition, be asked to assume a leadership position with respect to 300-level students, by being assigned to a small group and helping with background information and concept interpretation as required during the course. They will be responsible for submitting a diary of time and content of such activity, which will count toward their final grade.

For the 500-level course, the 300-level requirements will account for 50% of the course grade, distributed as above. The additional 50% will be allocated as:

Pre-session proposal.....	10%
Mid-session update report.....	5%
Final report.....	25%
Leadership of group.....	10%

Expectations:

By the conclusion of the program, a successful student will have acquired the following:

- an understanding of field reconnaissance techniques;
- the ability to produce a field notebook;
- a good understanding of the geography of Southeast Europe; and
- insights into social and economic processes, the organization of human activities, and environmental impacts of various forms of human actions.

Writing across the Curriculum

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Principles of Conduct

The University of Calgary Calendar includes a statement on the Principles of conduct expected of all members of the University community (including students, faculty, administrators, any category of staff, practicum supervisors and volunteers) whether on or off the University's property. This statement applies in all situations where the members of the University community are acting in their University capacities. All Members of the University Community have a responsibility to familiarize themselves with this statement which is available at:

Plagiarism

Academic dishonesty is not an acceptable activity at the University of Calgary and students are strongly advised to read the Student Misconduct section in the University Calendar. Quite often, students are unaware of what constitutes academic dishonesty or plagiarism. The most common are 1) presenting another student's work as your own 2) presenting an author's work or ideas as your own without proper referencing and 3) using work completed for another course. This activity will not be tolerated in this course and students conducting themselves in this manner will be dealt with according to the procedures outlined in the calendar.

Student Accessibility Services Accommodations

If you are a student with a documented disability who may require academic accommodation and have not registered with Student Accessibility Services, please contact their office at 220-8237. Students who have not registered with Student Accessibility Services are not eligible for formal academic accommodation. You are also required to discuss your needs with your instructor no later than fourteen (14) days after the start of this course.

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy

FOIP: The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (FOIP) legislation disallows the practice of having students retrieve assignments from a public place, e.g., outside instructor's office, the department office, etc. Term assignments will be returned to students individually, during class or during the instructor's office hours; if students are unable to pick up their assignments from the instructor, they provide the instructor with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to be used for the return of the assignment.

Re: Posting of Grades and Picking-up of Assignments

- All assignments will be handled through Blackboard or personally.
- Their own grades will be available to each student on Blackboard by password access.
Grades will not be available at Geography's main office.
